

THE MOUNTAINSIDE NEWS

October 1991

Letter From the President . . .

. . . . Jim Bradfield

Fall has arrived and those of you who have had the opportunity to visit your home at Coolfont have marveled once again at the beauty of the area and the many fall colors of the trees.

This column will be a regular feature in the Newsletter, in response to comments at the Annual Meeting that the members would like to know more about CMA issues and the actions taken by the Board at its monthly meetings.

- The Board has held one meeting since the Annual Meeting and the result of the election of officers is reported on the last page of this Newsletter. We have also included the current list of committees, chairs, and other members of the individual committees. Note that the Recreation Committee and the Coolfont Foundation have only one member. Anyone who wishes to assist on either committee should call the chairperson.

- The Treasurer reports that over 90% of the membership have paid their CMA assessments. Those who have not paid will be sent a notice that a penalty and interest are being added to their assessment.

- Very little has changed from the individual maintenance area reports presented at the Annual Meeting. The Gatehouse is finished and the former driveway to the Manor House closed off. A rock has been moved to the island to replace the one moved to the Gatehouse area. Two leaks in the water system were recently repaired with little outage problems.

- The Sewage Wetlands Project continues to move forward. Bid specifications were distributed in mid-September. During the actual construction there will be brief periods when sections of CMA may be required to temporarily cease use of their individual sewage systems. It is expected that such interruptions will be approximately 24 hours in length. Those affected will be alerted as early as possible.

CORRECTION

In the July 1991 issue of The Mountainside News, the Editor incorrectly stated that the 1986 Memorandum of Agreement stipulated that access to the Manor House be moved outside the CMA boundary by September 1991. The Agreement does not include that deadline. The Editor regrets the error.

- The Pre-arbitration Task Force has held two meetings since the Annual Meeting. Both sessions produced positive results in narrowing our efforts in preparing for arbitration issues. As a result of this progress, it has been decided to temporarily postpone the initiation of a consenses group for studying the water distribution system, since the Task Force is covering most of the same preliminary ground.

Those members who volunteered to participate in this group should not feel that we are ignoring the necessity of this study. We do feel that once we have a clearer idea of the arbitration issues, the water system study would have the benefit of the study being performed by the Task Force.

- The Board has considered the request to have more meetings at Coolfont in order that members who spend weekends at their Coolfont homes can attend the monthly meetings. The Board has agreed that the November monthly meeting will be held at the Coolfont home of Gale Connor (see NOTICE on page three).

- The Board has initiated a claim against Mr. Ashelman for compensation or replanting of comparable trees for the illicit cutting down of 20 mature trees and other smaller maturing trees on CMA common land behind D-6 lot. CMA members should be aware that the cutting of trees BY ANYONE on CMA common land is strictly prohibited, and the cutting of trees 6 inches in diameter or more is permitted on homeowners' property only with permission of the DACC. At its 31 August meeting, the Board passed the following motion: "Since cutting trees on CMA land is actionable trespassing, those who have trespassed and cut trees must pay restitution or replant with comparable trees; and CMA will send a notice to all members advising them that such tree cutting constritutes actionable trespassing."

- Water and sewer lines are now being installed in the R Section. The R turnaround has been tested by the Planning Commission and is approved provided the developer installs jute matting for stabilization and a guard rail. Lots in this section should be on the market soon.

C.B. and CMA: The Death of Charlie

by Elmer Broxson

Two weeks before the Annual Meeting, Charles Barrett (K-4) died of lung cancer after nearly a year's battle with the disease. I was asked by his wife Marie to list his services to the CMA for his obituary. It was only as a result of this effort that I came to realize how fundamental were his contributions.

In 1978, Charles, a professional architect, drew the first map of CMA lands and, in the same year, built his six-level house "for fun." I first met him in 1979 when he and I supervised the resurfacing of CMA roads. In 1980, he and Dick Minnamon worked out an expansion agreement with the developer which, although defeated at the time, served as the basic document for the Agreement approved in 1986.

From 1979 until his death this year. he spent countless hours serving the Association either on the Board as secretary or treasurer or as chairman of the Architectural Control Committee, reviewing house plans, overseeing the implementation of the 1986 Agreement, revising our Covenants and drawing up our Business-Use Regulations. But the contribution he was most proud of -- and the most visible -- were the CMA pool he designed in 1983 and the CMA entrance (the "Gatehouse") he designed in 1991.

As a person, Charles was a brilliant man -- the most intelligent I have ever met -- a very stubborn man, and a man who loved mental challenges, especially card games. The CMA is fortunate that he chose to donate so much of his energies and talents to its services.
