Annual Meeting Will Arrive On An Optimistic Note

IF you like your equations to balance, you'll love this: More involvement of the membership means greater understanding of issues...the better our understanding the better our collective judgments, especially when it comes to addressing community need. So, from every vantage point, the 93-94 year was a smashing success! No matter how the land trade voting comes out, the problems and costs we face with the water-sewer system are now abundantly clear to an entire membership. Few will be able to argue that "we need more time to study all this!" In addition to the common land trade proposition and community expansion option, in '93-'94, CMA studied or reviewed utility regulation, vista cutting, financing long term infrastructure improvements, wetland capacity, CDC-CMA relations, county and state construction codes, and a myriad of other timely matters. Study work has been or will be available to all members, so informed decision making can continue. On September 3, 1994 at the CMA Annual Meeting [Coolfont Resort, 1:00 p.m.] members will receive reports on the resolution of issues connected with the 1986 expansion agreement, vote on a new annual budget proposal, hear about the outcome of the land trade referendum, receive a progress report on our application to the Public Service Commission, and in general, discuss the future of the association. The election of four members to the board of Directors will take place. The annual meeting operates like a general assembly, with every member in attendance given the opportunity to participate in the governance of CMA.

Goodbye 93-94

Plenty of reasons to celebrate. Spirited debate in 93-94 meant new membership involvement and in-depth appreciation of the challenges facing CMA. Thanks to all.

Volunteers Donate Time and Effort to Better CMA

Unsung heros but not forgotten are all the members who donated hundreds of hours of effort to better their organization, community and living conditions for everyone. We'll miss a few on the list that follows because they served without our knowledge. For 93-94 they included: Rosemary Bigelow, Harry and Myra Birnkrant, Tim Black, Carl Bostrom, Jim Bradfield, David Brenner, Elmer Broxson, Glen Bruels, Linda Clark, Gale Connor, David Silver, Anne-Marie Doppman, Bob Dowling, John and Maggie Dowling, Connie Dupre, Don Fox, Don Green, Arleigh Greenblat, Nadine Horenstein, Herb Jasper, Paul Kagen, Leila Keese, Jim Lancaster, Henry Lynn, Alice Minnamon, Ed Neill, Dwain Place, Ralph Salvagno, Pat Schenk, Ann Schwartz, Roland Szadokierski, Lee Weinberger, Mick Zenick and advocates Jackson and Sandra Bain, Stan Bigelow and Jonathan and Jan Ormes. Whether committee or board members, letter writers, or officers, the contributions of everyone are greatly appreciated.

Time Remains to Vote on Land Trade

The CMA Board of Directors has approved a grace period between August 18th and the 26th for CMA traveling members' votes for the trade of common lands to reach the CMA Secretary . The trading of common land for developer land was the issue that became the focal point for the proposed expansion agreement. Ed Neill, CMA Secretary and Carl Bostrom, CMA Bylaws and Rules Chair will open and count membership votes on August 27th. Common land cannot be traded, sold or improved without 2/3 of the entire membership casting a positive vote. Lost your ballot? Call the President, Arleigh Greenblat at (202) 333 7697. Fax a ballot? As long as a signed original follows and can be authenticated, Ed and Carl will accept them. Call if this is the only way you can vote.

Speaking of ballots: A mailing was conducted last week which contained ballots and proxies to address upcoming CMA Annual Meeting issues and election of board members. If you didn't receive it, please call. A very important proposition is included which would raise water rates for the higher users and provide assessment relief for all. The proposal is revenue neutral and is intended to lower rates for most homeowners and bring financial fairness to the entire community.

WELCOME

NEW MEMBERS:

Mary Ann & Siuishansian Roohallah (Q-3), Glenn W. & Helen W. Pearson (S-5) , Bert & Joan Hash (F-4 & 1/2-(F-5) Anne E. & David W. Barrow (S-6).

Our best to all.

Budget Features Tennis Courts, Swimming Pool, Road Improvements

The annual budget enclosed with this newsletter features funds to repair our tennis courts and swimming pool. Long needed repairs have been on a back burner while the association has struggled to manage its financial resources. Improvements to the South Road are also included. This winter was specially hard requiring more than $4,000 in unanticipated expense to deal with ice and snow. The long term budget planning committee draft report and some able work by CMA Treasurer Anne-Marie Doppman and Finance Chair Jim Bradfield aided the board in the development of the budget proposal. Any technical questions on the budget would be appreciated in advance of the annual meeting, this to save time and allow for preparation of needed displays. Write or call any board member.

Candidates for Office . . . In Person at the Annual Meeting

You can meet and talk with the candidates for office at the annual meeting. They are: Jackson Bain, Jim Bradfield (past president) Elmer Broxson, (past president), Jonathan Ormes, Harold Radday, Pat Schenk, and Marvin Steinberg. Each candidate has prepared a statement of background and aspiration for service to CMA.

The association is honored that so many have agreed to serve. The candidates represent a variety of viewpoints and approaches to association work, so finding solid spokespersons for your particular way of doing business should not be difficult. Four board seats are to be filled.

Proxies must be registered with the CMA Secretary in advance and no member can vote more than five proxies. The board of directors encourages attendance at the meeting as opposed to voting by proxy.

Labels are available for members who wish to write to the membership. A $7.50 fee is charged.
