2001-2002 A Busy Year for CMA

By Jackson Bain

The Coolfont Mountainside Association has had a busy and productive year, with some major projects near completion and additional projects planned and ready to begin.

The most visible addition to our mountainside is the new CMA Office / Pool Bath building, located opposite the entrance to the swimming pool. Designed with a hint of Victorian architecture, the building is an all-weather structure with heating and hot water, and is expected to be used year-round.

The facility will offer two bathrooms (entrances shown above) on the East side of the building, and the CMA office on the West Side. The office—and its critical filing cabinets—will hold our records—required by the State of West Virginia as a public water utility, and needed for our Association to give each succeeding Board and Committee Chair a central point to understand our history and record of decisions.

The opening of the "T" section also was accomplished, with one new home nearing completion and several others in the planning stages. Eight new homes will be added to CMA when completed.

Our Roads Committee, headed by Lon Dring , was happily not burdened with a brutal winter, and took the opportunity to plan resurfacing of some of our roads, as well as supervising the completion of the naming of all our roads and "lanes" for accessibility by fire and rescue workers if needed.

2002-2003 will begin with the Annual Meeting on Saturday, July 20. Be a part of this great community! Volunteer some time or ideas to make it even better!

CMA COMMUNICATIONS COMMITTEE ANNUAL WRAPUP
by Joan Hash

This year we thank Jackson Bain for publishing our quarterly newsletters and bringing CMA news to our members in a stellar fashion!!! We are proud of his contributions this year.

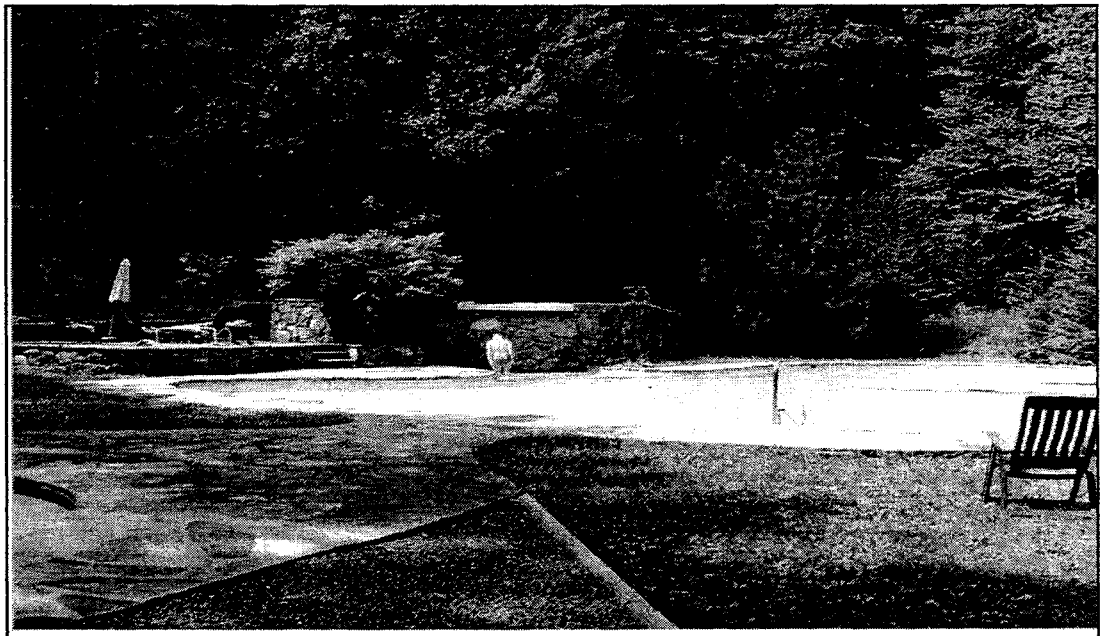

Also, our communication program fully matured this year under the able leadership of Joan Bradfield who made "talking by email" a full reality for members, keeping them informed in real time!!!

Unfortunately, although we are proud of our web site, we were disappointed that more members did not offer input and participate in making it a robust exchange mechanism for members. This will hopefully get more focus in the upcoming year.

As Chair, I would like to thank everyone who helped to contribute to our newsletters and our web site this year. In addition, I would like to thank the Board for all its support and everyone who has received the emails and responded and gave input to us in some way.

Meet Your Coolfont Neighbors

We're Rick Picardi and Eileen Neely of Mount Rainier, MD. Mount Rainier is a town just outside DC with a wonderful sense of community and growing number of artists – although we're not artists. We've had Turtle Pond at E-9 for six wonderful years. We discovered the Coolfont Mountainside during a long weekend stay at the delightful Berkeley Springs B&B, Highlawn Inn. We checked out Coolfont houses for sale on a whim and loved the look and peaceful feel of the Mountainside. Three months later we found ourselves the owners of Turtle Pond.

Eileen Neely, Maya and Rick Picardi of "Turtle Pond" (E-9)

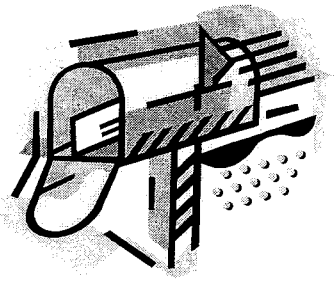

Eileen works at Fannie Mae, the mortgage investment company not the candy company. She's in their community development group, which assists communities across the country revitalize their downtowns and provide affordable housing. I work on international environmental issues, especially those having to do with hazardous wastes, at the Environmental Protection Agency. My job takes me to such gorgeous cities as Paris, Vienna, Prague and Geneva, and Eileen sometimes joins me after the meetings.

We love Turtle Pond because it's such a great gathering place. As much as possible, we invite family and friends to come stay with us. We host Eileen's family at Turtle Pond every Thanksgiving, and New Year's Eve at Coolfont has become a beloved traditional among a group of our friends. It is so much easier to put up a bunch of people when you're staying in a house with five bedrooms. We're what some people call DINKs (double income, no kids), but love having guests with kids stay. You may see us with them at the pool, in the lake, snow tubing or just walking through the woods. We also like to let non-profits that are cash-starved use our house gratis for weekend retreats. This May, the Housing Initiative Partnership (HIP), a group that renovates abandoned houses and small apartment buildings for low-income families in Prince George's County, will hold their Board retreat at our place.

Of course we also love coming up by ourselves for a quiet getaway. We have a dog named Maya, who seems to love Turtle Pond as much as we do. She's a beautiful white German Shepherd whose favorite Coolfont activity is swimming in the pond from which our house is named, or, better yet, Lake Siri.

We recently bought lot T-8, which is catty-cornered from Turtle Pond. Construction on the T-8 house started recently, and we plan to put the yet unnamed house in the rental program. The buying of a new lot and the effort to begin the building of a new house has made us very appreciative of the hard work of the current and past CMA boards, and we'd like to take this opportunity to thank them. We've enjoyed our years on the mountainside and hope to enjoy many more.

The President's Column

INVESTING IN OURSELVES

Berkeley Springs is maturing, as are we all. In recent years the town has acquired an addition to the library, a new public school, a cultural and performing arts center, a new post office, a bakery and café, a coffee shop, an upscale dinner restaurant, several craft galleries, an antique mall, and a number of other retail establishments. Coolfont is also remodeling and refurbishing itself.

Not to be outdone, CMA has built (drum roll, please) a new public toilet. Actually, it's a swimming pool bathroom facility together with an adjoining office. Both parts of the structure meet pressing needs. We needed to get rid of the Sani-John and provide, at long last, a comfortable, hygienic and attractive poolside facility.

The structure will also house the records and files of the association, in particular those of the water system. We are required, as a small water utility, to keep our records in one place and available for inspection by the state regulating authorities. And it is fitting and prudent that the rest of CMA's records, now stored in various private homes, be kept in one place.

As a matter of fact, this humble multipurpose building says much about the mountainside community. It says that we are willing to invest in ourselves, to achieve a degree of self-sufficiency, and to manage our own affairs. Most of all, it signifies our confidence in the future.

CMA ROADS ARE NOW NAMED

Lon Dring, Chairman of the CMA Roads Committee, reports that handsome wooden signs are now being made to indicate the roads that wind through our neighborhood.

These road name signs are being put in place to help Morgan County's Fire and Rescue volunteers find homes in an emergency.

In some cases, small roads that serve more than one home have been given new names to meet the location identification requirements of the Fire and Rescue Service.

IMPORTANT:
These are not mailing addresses, and Lon reminds all homeowners that the U.S. Mail will not deliver to a home using a number and these new road names!

DACC and Adjoining Lands Committees

by Jim Thompson - Chair

DACC

There continues to be a lot of activity on the Mountainside with several new applications and inquiries for building new homes at Coolfont. Clearing and in some cases construction of new houses has begun at A-2, Q-7 and T-8. I expect H-1 and T-6 to be following soon. There has been a healthy discussion by DACC and the Board regarding approval of new siding materials that have been proposed for new houses, resulting in the Board approving a waiver for one new product.

DACC Regulations and Guidelines

The current DACC "Regulations and Guidelines for Building at Coolfont" have not been updated since 1995. I am still working updates and will post them on the web page soon. I encourage anyone with comments about the existing Guidelines to forward them to me at jthompso@erols.com.

Adjoining Lands

The Ashelmans want to decide usage for approximately 40 acres remaining under their ownership in the Salmon tract. The Board has had discussion with them and is working to ensure access to and security of our Salmon well that lies within those 40 acres and appropriate development of the land
